The Chair invited theme leads to give a short update on their respective areas:

Craig McWhinnie – we will be pushing forward mapping of services with domestic abuse, lots of additional work to be done now. There is a potential to commission a piece of work around MARAC.

Tracey Watkinson – we have recognised a better grasp of online safety, we have previously relied on a peninsula group but we have pulled it back to our CSE group. We have just drafted a Plymouth locally responded strategy, we had an overarching Peninsula strategy but we have pulled it down to a local strategy.

Jane Elliot Tonic – The Modern Slavery Group is still operational and representation has been extended and it is believed this will continue to grow.

Rebecca Cheshire – substance misuse – The target message is about prevention and early intervention, the board agreed to broaden this out to look at drug related violence and care.

Craig Downham – had been unable to meet with Darin Halifax about welcoming City and One Plymouth. The community cohesion bid was a DCLG pot of money but DCLG pulled the funding opportunity.

Rob Mooney – The portable bus that had Fire marshals, Street Pastors, Police Officers and Taxi Marshals and was moved to Derry's cross at 21 May 2018. Taxi Marshals dealt with 692 people on the Saturday.
