37. RE IN ENGLISH SCHOOLS: NON-STATUTORY GUIDANCE 2010

The Religious Education Advisor outlined new non statutory guidance on religious education from the Department for Children Schools and Families. It was reported that-

- (i) RE was still a statutory requirement and that the non-statutory guidance still requires implementation through the Agreed Syllabus
- (ii) the guidance did not consider collective worship and circular 1/94 was still current;
- (iii) the guidance was intended to make clear the importance the government attaches to religious education in particular in relation to community cohesion.

Members of the council made the following comments-

- (iv) concern was raised that many schools could decide to no longer teach religious education as a discrete subject, but rather through a humanities framework or through cross curricular learning;
- (v) the teaching of religious education should be supported through the lesson planning process, cross curricular teaching should not be feared, it could be an opportunity if well taught;
- (vi) SACRE has become less informed on the teaching of RE in schools since the change in OFSTED reporting processes, SACRE have an important monitoring role in the teaching of RE in schools;
- (vii) it was possible that Plymouth SACRE were fulfilling their statutory duties but doing little beyond them.

Resolved that –

1. the Religious Education Advisor would attend PAPH and PASH to discuss the guidance and planning for Religious Education in schools;
2. the religious Education advisor and the Chair would prepare a discussion paper and meet with the Houses before meeting with the Director for the Children and Young Peoples service.

38. FEEDBACK FROM NASACRE TRAINING DAY

The panel received a presentation on feedback from the NASACRE training day. The presentation made a number of recommendations for Plymouth SACRE including -

- (i) a change of location for SACRE meetings;
- (ii) a change of time of SACRE business meetings;
- (iii) meetings of houses around the SACRE formal business meetings;
- (iv) developing a programme of school visits;
- (v) raising the profile of SACRE;
- (vi) an investigation into whether a young peoples SACRE was feasible.

Members of the council raised some concerns over holding meetings in schools as SACRE meetings were public meetings and SACRE must consider issues of access against duties to safeguarding.

Resolved that the Council accept the recommendations within the presentation and that the Religious Education Adviser takes these recommendations forward.

39. REVIEW OF SACRE DEVELOPMENT PLAN

The Religious Education Advisor distributed a copy of the SACRE Annual Report. The Annual Report has been designed to be more interesting with a better visual appearance. It was reported that –

- (ii) a questionnaire was sent to Plymouth schools to gather feedback on the impact of the agreed syllabus for Religious Education, 3 Secondary schools and 14 Primary schools and a special school have responded;
- (iii) in the responses, it was commented that religious education is often overshadowed by the focus on literacy and numeracy.

40. RE ADVISOR UPDATE

The Religious Education Advisor updated the council on the holocaust memorial day there had been a successful programme of events and it was reported that-

- (i) there has been a well attended memorial event in the Rose Garden at Mount Edgumbe Country Park;
- (ii) Solly Irving, a Jewish Holocaust survivor visited the City again to share his story with a number of schools in Plymouth, at least 20,000 have heard his testimony in the past 8-9 years. Last year, with a grant from Plymouth City Council, the Centre for Faiths and Cultural Diversity commissioned the services of a local documentary film maker to produce a DVD of Solly's testimony. During his visit he met with the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress and special guests at the Council House for the launch of this important contribution to Holocaust education;
